Middle Street Car Crashes Into Fred S. Wendell's Store.

A bad accident occurred on the electric road here early on Friday evening, although fortunately no one was injured. The car on the Middle street line was making the seven o'clock trip to the depot, when it left the rails at the corner of Dear and Market streets and crashed into the tobacco store of Fred S. Wendell. The car was in charge of Conductor Colbeth and Motorman Nay, but fortunately there were no passengers on board.

Nearly the entire corner of the building was crushed in and the vestibule of the car badly damaged. It was found necessary to jack the end of the building up in order to remove the car. The damage to Mr. Wendell's store will amount to several hundred dollars, besides the damage to the car. Travel on the line was delayed about an hour and a half and it was the prompt work of the wrecking crew that prevented a longer delay.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by water running down between the rails and freezing there, at the point of the curve, causing the wheels to ride up over.

An investigation will be made.

House Finally Passes Naval Appropriation Bill.

Senator Depew Makes Eloquent Plea For Shipping Bill.

Adverse Report On Purchase Of Havana Floating Dock.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The house adopted the conference report on the army reorganization bill today. The debate was chiefly notable for the sharp exchange of words between Mr. Richardson, the minority leader, and Mr. Hay, democrat, of Virginia, a member of the conference committee, who reproached the democratic leader for not making a fight for a temporary army, when the bill was originally before the house. The naval appropriation bill was finally passed today and also seventy-seven private pension bills.

May Have An Extra Session Of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The brief recommendation in the message of the president sent to the senate today, urging immediate legislation in the interest of the Philippines, caused general surprise among the senators and occasioned speculations upon the probability of an extra session of congress immediately after March fourth. Senators, in general, say that they have had no intimation from the White house that a special session of the entire congress may be desirable. They unite in saying that no Philippine legislation is possible during the remaining five weeks of the present session.

What The Senate Did.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Senator Depew of New York, today delivered in the senate a characteristic, forceful and eloquent address in the support of the shipping bill. The address, which occupied one hour, was in the nature of an appeal for the upbuilding of American merchant marine, provided for in the pending measure. Little progress was made in the Indian appropriation bill. The last hour in the senate was consumed in the passing of numerous private pension bills.

Do Not Want That Spanish Floating Dock.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The naval board headed by Judge Advocate General Linsley, appointed to decide upon the desirability of purchasing the large floating steel dry dock in Havana harbor from the Spanish government, reports that to place the dock in thorough repair and to prepare it for a voyage would involve an expenditure of over $500,000, and that a dock could be built new at a figure not greater than that. Admiral Endicott, chief of bureau of yards and docks, has recommended that the tender of the Spanish government for its sale shall not be accepted. Secretary Long has approved the recommendation.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—While the queen regent and her children were boating on a lake in the royal park, on the outskirts of Madrid, today, says the Madrid correspondent of the Daily Express, a shot was fired from the bank and the bullet penetrated the gunwale of the boat. The park was searched at once but no one was discovered. The queen regent was considerably alarmed.

Touching And Pathetic Scenes At The Last Farewell.

Emperor William Weeps Bitterly And King Edward Deeply Moved

COWES, ISLE OF WIGHT, Jan. 26.—With a pathos and solemnity such as seldom marks the passing from daylight to the darkness of a coffin, the royal family yesterday took a last look at the features of the dead queen. About ten o'clock in the morning the shell was brought into the bedroom where were waiting King Edward, Emperor William, the duke of Connaught, Sir James Reid and the royal ladies. The latter having retired, Sir James Reid with reverent hands assisted by those trusted household servants, removed the body from the bed to the coffin. The servants having retired Queen Alexandra, the princesses and the children were recalled and with lingering steps and stifling sobs, they passed slowly before the white-robed and peaceful figure. At the foot, never moving, stood King Edward and when the mourning crowd had passed, there remained only the son and grandson of the dead. Emperor William wept even more bitterly than the royal ladies. Finally he also retired and the king was left alone. Sir James Reid beckoned to the servants with the coffin lid and asked the king's instructions. For a few seconds the king stood speechless, stricken with emotion at the last farewell. Then he said "close it firmly, it must not be opened again." Thus the remains of England's greatest ruler were forever closed from human view.

A TERRIBLE HURRICANE.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 25.—The steamer Aorangi, from Sydney, brings the story of the most disastrous hurricane known in the history of New Britain since the appearance there of white settlers a quarter of a century ago. The storm began December 7th and continued three days, causing the most distressing scenes of desolation, injury and death. The beaches were strewn with the wrecks of vessels, boats and lighters. The banana plantations were devastated and those on the north coast were completely destroyed. Two natives were drowned and others injured. The damage to shipping alone will exceed $200,000.

HAD A BRUSH WITH THE BOERS

PRETORIA, Jan. 25.—Yesterday a train having on board Lord Kitchener and a body of troops, proceeded towards Middelburg. An armed engine preceded it and was derailed by dynamite near Balmoral. The Boers who were in force, opened fire and the British replied heavily. Ultimately the Boers were driven off. The British sustained no casualties.

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be.

This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured the niece of Frank Fay, 106 N. St., South Boston, Mass., who writes that she had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for six years; had been without appetite and had been troubled with sour stomach and headache. She had tried many other medicines in vain. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla made her well.

COUNCIL MEETING.

A Long Drawn Out Session Of Lower Board.

Amend Annual Loan Resolution After Lengthy Discussion.

Chief Engineer Authorized to Purchase Extra Fire Hose.

The adjourned meeting of the common council was held on Friday evening, and after the usual delay the members were called to order by President Nelson.

Those present at roll call were: Councilmen Chickering, Ayers, Pettigrey, Palfrey, Drake, Smith, Cole, Langdon, Mathes, Herrick, Colbeth, Cogan and Nelson.

Records of preceding meeting were read and approved.

The resolution as passed by the board of aldermen, recommending that the city solicitor be authorized to have the city charter amended, was brought up, and on motion of Councilman Mathes the council concurred with the aldermen.

The joint resolution in regard to the Eldy memorial gift that also passed the upper branch at their last meeting was read, and after the usual proceedings was unanimously accepted and passed to be engrossed.

A joint resolution in regard to the purchase of more fire hose was introduced, and at the request of Councilman Langdon, Chief Engineer Randall was invited to address the meeting. He said, in part, that owing to the great number of fires recently all the hose in the department has been called into use and all the hose in the wagons is wet through. There is not a foot of spare hose in any of the houses and the tower is full of wet hose, hung up to dry. Some new hose is urgently needed and should be procured at once. The joint resolution was then read, as follows:

Joint resolution authorizing the purchase of hose.

Be it resolved by the city councils of the city of Portsmouth.

That the chief engineer of the fire department be and hereby is authorized to immediately purchase 2000 feet of hose for the use of the fire department, the cost of the same to be provided for in the annual appropriation bill for 1901.

Councilman Cogan asked how the hose was dried and the matter was explained by Chief Randall.

On motion of Councilman Langdon the resolution passed its first reading. The rules were then suspended and it passed through its several readings and will be sent to the aldermen for concurrence.

The joint resolution authorizing the mayor to negotiate a temporary loan was then brought up. It had already passed its first and second readings at the previous meeting and was held up to allow the city auditor to be present to explain a few things to the council.

Auditor Gardner explained numerous points in the expenses of running the city, at the request of Councilman Mathes. On motion of this councilman the resolution was reconsidered so that it would be open to amendments. In other words, it was put back to its first reading.

Councilman Mathes then introduced an amendment to the original resolution, as passed down from the board of aldermen.

Before the motion was put to the council a long discussion ensued on the question. On a yeas and nays vote his motion was lost, seven to six.

Councilman Langdon then offered an amendment to the amendment of Councilman Mathes, but no action being taken Councilman Chickering moved that the original resolution pass its second reading. This motion was also lost.

Councilman Langdon then offered another amendment, which finally passed, and the resolution now goes back to the board of aldermen for concurrence, as follows:

IN THE YEAR 1901.
An ordinance authorizing the mayor to negotiate a temporary loan.

Be it ordained by the city councils of the city of Portsmouth.

SECTION 1. The mayor is hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the city the sum of $1100 to pay the running expenses of the city for the month of January and further authorize him to renew notes and interest becoming due, as follows: $10,500, January 28th, 1901; $18,000, January 29th, 1901.

SECTION 2. This act shall take effect on its passage.

Adjourned to the call of the president.

SECOND ANNUAL.

Pretty Dancing Party Given by the Piscataqua Club.

The second annual concert and dance of the Piscataqua club was held in Peirce hall on Friday evening and was largely attended. During the concert there were songs by Miss Mildred Barnard and Freeman Caswell, buck and wing dancing by Richard Pettigan and a musical programme by Joy and Philbrick's orchestra. The latter also furnished the music for dancing. It was a very pretty party and thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

The officers of the dance were: Floor Director, J. T. Sheehan; Assistants, J. Dorsey, Victor Murphy;

Aids, W. F. Costello, J. Barrett, J. Casey, H. P. Moran, J. F. Leary, C. M. Sheppard, R. C. Murphy, W. F. Griffin, G. W. Lane, J. Kaufman; Committee, R. L. Costello, V. J. Murphy, P. P. Sullivan, J. T. Sheehan, J. J. Barrett, J. Dorsey.

WERE CURIOUS.

An illustration of what a bump of curiosity most people are possessed of happened near the Herald office on Pleasant street Friday afternoon. A gang of men rigged a derrick out of a window in Exchange block to remove a safe from the office of Page & Bartlett. In less than no time a big crowd lined both sides of the street and kicked their heels together, waiting to see what was going to take place. For over an hour they waited until the big safe was in sight and then they slowly dispersed.

* Cold hands "are as bad as cold feet

It will seldom be necessary, probably, to impose the new law making thirty years in prison the penalty for kidnapping, but it is a good thing to have ready when it is needed.

In the street scrap between Mrs. Nation and the wife of a man who had his bar smashed by the former, first blood was scored by the latter. It takes a female to lick one of her own kind.

Perhaps Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith thinks that Mr. Henry Watkinson knows about as much about literature as politics, for the latter has rather roasted Mr. Smith for his criticism of Uncle Tom's Cabin.

In the announcement of the Chicago Tribune, one of the leading republican papers of the west, that it will support the best man for mayor, regardless of his politics, it does not mean it would support a democrat.

There is no cause for complaint against the efforts of the Maine officials in clearing up the Gorham murder case, but the Portland Express was enterprising enough in clearing up the news end of the affair to make the legal process look slow.

It was a very neat and deserved compliment that Gov. Jordan has received from Canada. Gov. Jordan was invited to attend a meeting of the American Residents' association to be held in Montreal next month, and the members of the above named association are anxious that New Hampshire's chief executive should attend the exercises to be given, for it was argued that he "carries with him the breath of New Hampshire life." It is also pointed out that he is "happy in his manner and particularly in speech."

The entire Rockingham county representation in the state legislature is solid for the promotion of the ocean boulevard, and is to make a strong fight, if necessary, to secure an appropriation sufficient to complete it as soon as possible. The boulevard has an unknown, but interested supporter in Exeter, who is quoted in the Exeter correspondence of the Manchester Union as saying that the feeling prevails throughout that past legislatures have been extremely generous to the no more attractive mountain section of the state, and by this help the summer business has been developed there at the expense of a community equally deserving. It is much to be desired that the appropriation be liberal enough to construct the entire boulevard during the coming two years.

In referring to the bill before the Maine legislature for the re-establishment of the death penalty, the Boston Transcript says:

When Maine became a separate state the death penalty prevailed and was continued until 1837, when the law was changed to a way which practically left the punishment of the guilty optional with the governor, who frequently exercised his power for the benefit of the prisoner. In 1876 capital punishment was abolished with little opposition, and life imprisonment was made the penalty for murder in the first degree. This action was influenced largely by the belief of many Maine people that a man who was hanged for a murder on the Isles of Shoals was not guilty.

In 1883 a bill was introduced to restore the death penalty, and it provoked one of the warmest discussions of the session, but was finally carried. Representative Heath of Augusta was a strong champion of the bill, and made a remarkably telling speech in favor of it. An instance cited by him, to prove that the death penalty causes a diminution of crime, was the case of a murder in Wick's Mills, in which a young man murdered his mother in a most brutal way, and on being arrested promptly exclaimed: "Well, they can't hang me!" This doubtless had considerable effect, and the bill was adopted by a good sized majority. In 1887 the law for capital punishment was again abolished, this time with very little opposition.

The recent horrible murders in the western part of the state have again aroused a clamor for the re-enactment of the death penalty. But there will be strong opposition to the measure, and a long and vigorous debate is expected. If the legislature follows the precedents under which capital punishment has been enacted in Maine before, the death penalty seems likely to be restored there.

Rheumatism

"About a year ago I was attacked with rheumatism in my feet and legs, chiefly in my legs. They were very painful and I was unable to walk. I had been suffering in this way for about three months, when someone handed me a pamphlet advertising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I read it through carefully and made up my mind to give them a fair trial, for not only was I anxious to be relieved of my sufferings, but I knew that unless I could get relief I would soon have to give up work altogether. I got two boxes of the pills and by the time the second one was used up I began to feel much better. I found I could get about much better, and I found I could get about much better, and I found I could get about much better. I got three more boxes and by the time the last of them had been taken I was entirely free from the swelling, the pain and the stiffness. In fact I was cured, and I am glad to say that I have had no return of the trouble since."

KITTERY.

Mr. George A. Littlefield of Kittery stands second today in the Boston Globe voting contest for the trip to Washington.

The funeral of Mrs. Johanna Johnson will be held at the home near Kittery Depot on Sunday, the hour not having been decided upon.

Clam chowder will be served tonight at the meeting of York Rebekah lodge. This feature of the meeting was postponed from the last meeting.

The Portsmouth Herald has a voting contest which began on Wednesday, to end April 2, for the two most popular boys and girls in our village. Wonder who they are?—Kittery correspondent of Biddeford Journal.

Owing to the continued illness of the Rev. George Clark Andrews of the Second Methodist church, his pulpit will be occupied on Sunday forenoon by the Rev. Mr. Hall of Kittery Point, who preached at the church last Sunday.

The following measures were introduced in the legislature by the York county delegates Wednesday: By Mr. Staples of York—Petition of Wilson M. Walker and 25 others of York in favor of an act to incorporate the York Harbor Village corporation. Also an act to incorporate the York Harbor Village Corporation.

The grip is fairly raging in town and it seems as though there is not a family but what has one or more members sick. While the epidemic is equal to that of two years ago, the most of the cases do not seem to be as severe as they were at that time. Even the physicians have not escaped and one is just recovering from a two weeks' attack.

Died in North Kittery, Jan. 24, Mrs. Mary J. Cole, aged seventy seven years and six months. Funeral Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

The subject at the Second Christian church on Sunday by the pastor, Rev. E. C. Hall, will be, "The Spiritual Blessings of the Nineteenth Century."

As previously announced, this sermon was delivered at the watch night meeting service at the church, at the close of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the twentieth. Its second delivery was asked for by those who heard it and who pronounced it a powerful and helpful discourse.

A bright little four-year-old of Kittery village went with his mother to Kittery Point one day this week to see a new baby cousin, but seemed to be more interested in a pup. After his return he was being interviewed as to what he had seen. "Oh, a pup!" he said. "You ought to see the little dog; he's all over sheep." "All over sheep," said the aunt, "what do you mean?" "Why, don't you know, aunt, what sheep have all over them? Well, he's got sheep all over him, only it's black." The pup was a curly Newfoundland.—Kittery correspondent of Biddeford Journal.

Messrs. Paul Bros. take pride in their new store in the Piscataqua building, which has been rebuilt and newly furnished throughout. The store is a beauty and a credit to the proprietors and the village. The interior is fitted up in the most modern manner and is convenient and attractive. The counters, cases and store furniture are of the latest pattern and have been selected for the particular uses to which they are put. The store is well lighted, a very neat office has been built in the building and the storage room has been fully equipped. The proprietors are filling the store with a new stock and are receiving many congratulations on their surroundings.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

When Senator Chandler appeared upon the floor of the senate Monday, for the first time since his defeat in the New Hampshire legislature, he was given a most cordial greeting by his colleagues on both sides of the chamber, says the Washington Post. Senator Gallinger, his fellow senator from New Hampshire, shook hands with him and talked with him several minutes.

Senator Chandler has made no public statement since his defeat, nor does he care to say anything now. He has returned to Washington with a programme of work mapped out upon the back of an envelope. This programme he jealously guards, preferring that it should gradually unfold itself during the six weeks that remain of the session. There is one thing, however, upon which Mr. Chandler is emphatic. "There ought to be an extra session of congress called on the 15th of March," he says. "Nothing is likely to be enacted from this stage of the session, and so there ought to be an extra session to consider the shipping bill and other measures which, if they are not passed until late in the next regular session of congress, will have an adverse influence upon the republican party in the campaign. I think that the new congress ought to begin with the president's new term. It would be a wise political move."

Very fortunately, a kerosene lamp in Mr. Wendall's store had not been lighted at the time of the accident on Friday evening and a bad fire was undoubtedly saved because the lighting had been postponed.

OLD ACQUAINTANCES MEET.

How an Elderly Man Kept a Young Passenger From Being Fleeced.

Some years ago a young man with more money than sense became involved in a game of poker on one of the English ships. The first night he won freely and had a big stack of red and blue chips to cash in when the game closed. The second night he had to play in order to give his opponents a chance to recover, and toward the end of the evening lost heavily. He held $2000, hands, but somebody else always held better, and he was compelled to go to the bank several times. As fast as he bought chips they were transferred to two pleasant looking gentlemen who played recklessly and sympathized with his losses. When he did win, it was only a small pot and nobody else had anything.

An old gentleman with a long white beard, who was down on the passenger list as Judge Something-or-other from California, had been overlooking the game for an hour or more, when he touched the youngster on the shoulder and said:

"I say, young fellow, let me spell you for a couple of hands around, just to change the luck."

The young man was inclined to refuse, but he noticed a curious expression on the judge's face and changed seats with him to see what would happen. Twice the judge caught the gentleman on the opposite side on a misdeal. Twice he laid down his hand on the ground that the wrong card was given him. Two of the other players protested, but the judge was very firm and dignified about it and wouldn't even answer their arguments. Three times he requested the man opposite him to cut again, but he always did it in such a quiet, pleasant way that no offense could be taken. Finally he proposed that they play a round of jack pots and quit. When that was done and he showed the chips over, the young man whose place he had taken found himself many dollars to the better. He offered to divide the winnings, but the judge only smiled and lighted a big cigar and said:

"Put your money in your pocket and don't ever play with strangers again. Those chips are old acquaintances of mine. I met them at Sacramento when I was a member of the legislature several years ago, and I know their game."—Chicago Record.

The Eclipse.

On no other occasion does the display of tremendous power in the economy of the physical universe exercise so enduring an influence over the mind or produce so humiliating a conviction of the impotence of all human efforts to control the immutable laws of nature and arrest the course of events as when the glorious orb of day, while riding in the heavens with unclouded splendor, begins to melt away from an unseen cause and soon totally disappears, leaving the whole visible world wrapped in the sable gloom of nocturnal darkness. The scene is rendered still more impressive by the circumstances accompanying so remarkable an occurrence.

The heavens assume an unnatural aspect, which excites a feeling of horror in the spectator. A livid hue is diffused over all terrestrial objects. Plants close up their leaves as on the approach of night. The birds betake themselves to their resting places. The warbling of the grove is hushed in profound silence. In other words, universal nature seems to relax her energies, as if the pulse which stimulated her mighty movements had all at once stood still.—Sir Norman Lockyer.

An English paper says that Florence Nightingale "received her Christian name from the town in which she was born—Florence, Italy. Her name is not Nightingale, but Shore, her father being a Nottingham banker who inherited the estates of Peter Nightingale on condition that he assume the name."

A chain bridge over the Merrimack river at Amesbury, Mass., is said to be the oldest suspension bridge in the United States. It was built in 1792.

NO RELATIVES FOUND.

Disposition of Charles Stahl's Body Postponed Until They Are Located

The body of Charles Stahl, the unfortunate fireman of the steamer Asuncion, is at Nickerson's undertaking rooms on Daniel street and an effort is being made by Coroner Rider to locate the relatives of the dead man.

E. B. Grant, the United States shipping commissioner at Boston, where Stahl was signed, was notified of the circumstances this morning and he was directed to go to 224 or 274 Commercial street, Boston, where Stahl is supposed to have boarded.

Stahl told the crew of the steamer that he had a wife in Philadelphia.

The coroner's jury met at two o'clock Friday afternoon and examined a number of witnesses. The facts of the case have been told in the Herald.

The first assistant engineer, the first mate, the quartermaster, an oiler and the two firemen told substantially the same story. The jury after careful consideration decided on a verdict although it was not handed in. They will report that the said Charles Stahl died from neglect of the officers on the coal steamer Asuncion. It is understood that the names of the officers will be in their verdict. No arrests had been made in the case up to two o'clock today, as the case has been placed before the county solicitor.

A MATTER OF INTEREST.

Why Senator Urch Opposed Immediate Passage of a Bill.

The senate bill, which brought out the first flurry of interest and debate, in the senate on Thursday afternoon and which for the time being was so successfully prevented passage by Senator Urch, was introduced by Senator Leach of district number six. The bill had been favorably reported by the committee to whom referred, and is evidently intended to materially increase, probably double, the number of divorce cases in this state.

The bill is in substance as follows: "Whenever any insane husband or wife has been confined in any asylum for three years, it shall be deemed sufficient ground for filing a libel for divorce, unless there exists a possibility of a speedy and permanent recovery."

The words "any asylum" would seem to indicate that the record of any so called asylum, whether public or private, whether the patient is held arbitrarily or legally, whether in this state or any other or even in a foreign country, must be taken by our judges as justifying the separation of marital relations.

THE TRAMP PROBLEM.

State Board of Charity Makes Suggestion about the Matter.

The police department throughout the state would have a great burden lifted from their shoulders if there were some law enacted competent to deal with this problem. The tramp is not a criminal and is not to be treated as such unless by some act beyond his lack of prosperity he merits it. To house him over night and send him on his way the next morning with a few crackers and a dipper of water as sustenance for his day's labor or search for labor, as the case might be, is not the right way to treat him. Some labor ought to be required of the honest tramp, not as a penalty for being a tramp, but, rather as a means for keeping alive within him the spark of self-respect that is apt to disappear from every honest man when he fails to be able to earn his daily bread. For the dishonest tramp there should be punishment to fit the crime, and compulsory labor seems to be about the right thing.

The state board of charity in its annual report suggests:

"Third—That the varying methods of treating the tramp problem by the municipalities that receive them for the night, or for a meal, are strong evidence of the need of adopting throughout the state some common and consistent method of dealing with this class of paupers."
